PALPABLE MISSTATEMENT.
From the Manufacturer.

Mrs. Cleveland more than once has said, and Mr. Wilson at the banquet given by his friends last night in London repeated, that the mills of this country can supply the whole of the domestic demand for goods for a year or two.

This statement is a misstatement. This kind of statement is necessary to sustain the favorite doctrine of the free traders that American manufacturers are suffering for want of access to foreign markets. The fact that imports wholly without foundation in fact. In the most prosperous year of our history, 1892, we imported to this country more than $200,000,000 worth of goods such as we make at home, and at the same time the American mills ran continuously throughout the year. If the statement referred to were correct, we must have accumulated a vast surplus stock of goods, whereas every well-informed man knows that the total products and the total imports were consumed and disappeared. The fact that imports were so large supplies conclusive proof that the domestic mills do not supply the domestic demand in good times.

With much confidence it may be affirmed that, were European fabrics completely excluded, the American mills could not meet the requirements of the home market if they should run for seven hours a day. But, if indeed Mr. Wilson spoke the truth, in what manner could his tariff bill improve the situation? It opens no door to foreign goods. The markets are as much closed to us as they ever were; and more, for reciprocity with Cuba and Brazil has been destroyed. What the bill does is to open the door wider to our own market. That is to say, Wilson and his fellow free traders have invited foreigners to send more goods into a market which, according to the theory referred to, can be supplied by our own mills in six months. Their purpose would appear to be to arrange that no American mill shall be in operation for a longer period than three months in the year.

Perhaps. The melancholy days are here. But in them's one bright gleam--The jokers will be compelled To soon turn on the steam. --Inter-Ocean.

I Can Honestly Say This

"For years I was in a very serious condition with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and bladder. I suffered intensely from dyspepsia, and in fact was a miserable wreck, merely a skeleton. I seemed to go from bad to worse. I really wished I was dead. I had no rest day or night. I did not know what to do. I had taken so much medicine of the wrong kind that it had poisoned me, and my finger nails began to turn black and come off."

Mr. W. R. Young, Potter's Mills, Pa. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had faith in the medicine, and it did more for me than all prescriptions. I am gradually regaining perfect health, am entirely free from catarrh of the bowels, and pain in my back. My recovery is simply marvelous." W. R. Young, Potter's Mills, Pa.
